Jake and Shannon Jacobs have a love affair with the Shenandoah Valley. They commute from their residence and jobs in Woodbridge each weekend to operate their "labor of love," The Filling Station.

Along with partners Eric and Debbie Sellers, they've opened a coffee shop that features Christian and easy-listening music from 7 to 9 p.m. every Friday and Saturday night, including "Open Mic."

The coffee shop is also open during the day on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays.

"Everyone's invited to come on out ... enjoy and join in," says Shannon. "Get up on the stage, sing, play music, read your poetry or just relax and watch the show. It's a different experience every weekend."

Currently, The Filling Station offers free popcorn, snacks, breakfast items and all sorts of coffee drinks. They are planning to add hot food soon, and to participate in Edinburg's Old Time Festival on Sept. 19-21. To learn more, call 984-8008, or visit site at: theedinburgfillingstation.com.

Shannon stands behind the counter, getting food and drinks for customers last weekend.

Sean Murphy plays guitar and Jake Jacobs tambourine as they perform Come Together, by The Beatles.
